müller coax honors long-serving employees at the company Christmas party müller coax gmbh, the Forchtenberg-based industry expert for coaxial valve solutions, honors long-serving employees as part of the company Christmas party.

In December 2025, müller coax from Forchtenberg held its annual Christmas party. In addition to a festive atmosphere and company highlights from the past year, the focus was also on honoring long-serving employees.

A total of 21 employees were honored for their long service at müller co-ax gmbh. The anniversaries ranged from 10 to 45 years and are a testament to the high level of employee loyalty and continuity at the Forchtenberg site.

Special recognition was given to Ursula Veinauer with 45 years of service, as well as Manfred Sauer and Volker Fröscher, who have each been with the company for 40 years. Their dedication and extensive expertise have been contributing to müller coax for several decades. Like all of our long-serving employees, they stand for reliability, experience, and cooperative partnership, which have shaped müller coax's success for many years.

Managing Directors Thorsten Müller and Antonio Erriu thanked the employees celebrating their anniversaries for their many years of loyalty and commitment. "Without the know-how and commitment of our employees, müller coax would not be what it is today. We are proud and would like to thank them for their loyalty," said Müller. The employees celebrating their anniversaries received a gift in recognition of their many years of service.

müller coax offers its employees security in an international and attractive working environment, sound and future-oriented training as well as diverse opportunities for personal and professional development. This is reflected in low staff turnover, meaning that numerous company anniversaries can be celebrated at müller coax every year.

21 employees celebrating anniversaries are a strong sign of genuine employee loyalty and long-term satisfaction at müller co-ax.
